THE SCHUETZENFEST.

THE FIRST DAY'S FESTIVITIES.

Arrival of Delegates from Abroad.

Their Reception by the City Authorities.

GRAND PARADE AND ILLUMINATION.

Programme of the Procession on Monday.

Yesterday morning dawned brightly upon the city, not even a cloudlet being visible on the broad ex-panse of the akies long before sunrise. All interested in the success of the great Schuetzenfest-and they are pretty nearly a majority of the people of New granted us on that first day of the festival, on which lelegations from all parts of the United States were expected and had to be received. But the brightness of the morning allayed all fears, and all apprenensions of a failure vanished. A slight gloom, indicative of disappointment, was visible at headquarters at six in the morning, when it was anounced that the train from the West, with the delegations, would not arrive till near twelve o'clock.

dred justy throats sent up a glorious cheer of welcome.

The evening was eventful. General Franz Sigel received five different delegations in the chief room of the Germania Hall. The first delegation, which was from Charleston, was the most interesting. They were dressed, as usual, in rife green, and fell into line in true military style. General Sigel delivered a speech of welcome, and talked about the long estrangement between the two sections. North and South, trusted that this Schuetzenfest, which in itself was a token of peace and harmony between all men, might prove one at least of the principal aids in the restoration of a united country. The other delegations were from St. Louis, Baltimore, San Francisco and Indianapolis, and were appropriately received.

Late in the evening a powder company of New York presented eight powder horns to the association through the medium of General Sigel. The Charleston Schutzen company presented a tame bear to the association, and thereby created much fun. Indeed the bare mention of such a present was enough to raise a little excitement in any community.

In behalf of the members of the Sharpshooters' Association of New York and vicinity Mr. Otten-dofer received the visitors in a brief address, which

Association of New York and vicinity Mr. Ottendofer received the visitors in a brief address, which was substantially as follows:—

The honorable duty had been devolved upon him to welcome the members of the American Sharpshooters' Associations and of the whole people of New York. He doubted his ability to give fair and full expression in words to the feeling which pervades all classes of the population alike, and which will greet them at every step, and he hoped that the cordulity of their reception and the hospitality to be extended to them on behalf of the citizens of New York will not only perpetuate brilliant memories in their minds, but will convince them of the friendship and fraternity which unite all nationabiles in one common people. Not wishing to detain them long he once more bade them hearty welcome to our city. The band struck up "Hail to the Chief," and after that Mr. Mutschiechner, of Chicago, and last year's President of the association, stated that they were all tired out and almost trembing from fatigue; that for this reason he wished to be excused from replying now to the eloquent address of Mr. Ottendofer; but that at the banquet on Monday next he would take occasion to give expression to his feelings.

The Western guests were then taken in charge by the Raggage Committee, who looked after their trunks and valiese, and to have them promptly forwarded to their quarters. The procession was then formed in the following order:—

Band; the several committees; delegation of citizen shareholders; the guests from the West, and the different companies or sharpshooters, the whole under command of Major Hemmer, of the New York Schuetzen battalion. The procession moved from the Gortlandt street ferry to Greenwich up to Murray street to Broadway, and through the Fark to Printing House square. At the moment the first line of the Band entered the Park Major J. J. Diehi fired the first gun and continued till he had completed the salue of fifty. The procession then entered Chatham street and moved up the Bo

ARRIVAL OF DELEGATES FROM CHARLESTON,
The Steamship Saragossa, which was expected early resterday morning, only strived last might at seven o'clock, and brought a delegation of twenty-four members of the German Rine Club, of Charles, too. The club numbers two numbered and cipity. Their dress is very simule, but very fiftly and becoming—green blouse, trimmed with black, and black pantaloons, and hat of black felt, with black feather. When the steamer got into the dock they were received by vice President Willmann, Captain Bauer and about half a dozen of the Rew York Schnetzen. Mr. Willmann addressed them in the cabin in a few hearty and appropriate words, to which the president of the Charlestonians, Captain Alexander Meichers. Sponded, saying that he felt highly gratifical with the hearty welcome, and assured them that their social feeling was fully as warm in the South, and they had come to show this. Six of the schuetzens have brought their wives with them. Among the curiosities it may be said that they have brought a live black bear with them. What figure this animal is going to play 2st the festival we are at a loss to say. The debarkation of the luggage took until about eight o'clock, when the call of "Fall in" brought them to a line. The laddes had been previously sent to the headquariers in carriages, while the Schuetzen marched up through Wall and Nasau streets to the Third avenue cars, to be safely landed at the headquarters in the Germania Assembly Rooms, where they arrived at half-past eight o'clock.

NAMES OF DELEGATES.

The delegates from the Germania Rifle Club, of Charleston, are as follows:—A. Melchers, President; P. D. Lesemann, Vice President; P. Wehmann, P. C. H. Claussen, E. Waltgen, G. Fees, L. Schuchart, H. AT GERMANIA HALL.

When the delegations arrived at the hall they were, after a short recreation, called together by Mr. George Kuester, who introduced Mr. Ottendorfer, the Chairman of the Committee of Reception. Mr. Ottendorfer again welcomed the guest from afar, and thanked them for undergoing so long a journey and so long a deprivation of the comforts of home to participate in this great national festival. He referred to Switzerland, the mother country of such festivities, and the seed sown among the ce-claid mountains of the Alps as bearing magnificent fruit even in this new country. Power, patriotism, friendship and unity are cultivated by the harmonious commingling of men from all parts of a common country. He assured them that everything will be done to increase this harmonious understanding, and to assure them that all classes of the population not only, but the official authorities likewise, are in full accord with them, he would introduce Mayor John T. Hoffman as a true representative of the feelings of the people towards the Schuetzenfest.

The Mayor was received with uproarious cheers, the hand playing "Hail to the Chuff" When the

and, after the Detroit delegates were introduced the meeting adjourned.

To-day, from ten in the morning till ten in the evening, the prizes for the Schuetzenfest will be on exhibition at Steinway Hall; an admission of ten cents for each person will be charged, the whole receipts being appropriated to the benefit of the widow and children of the poor laborer who met his death by the accidental caving in of the trestle fence or kugelfang on Friday last.

THE ILLUMINATION.

To give a general impression of the illumination, we would state that the Turn Halle on Orchard street and nearly every building on the block around it was a gleaming and a blaze of light. On the Bowery two inscriptions of the many were most noticeable; one was the old motto of Switzerland, "A clear eye and steady hand defend my home and fatherland." The other was:—

LAMENTABLE OCCURRENCE.

The Suicide of Dr. Churles F. Thornton, in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer, June 24.]

About five weeks since a paragraph appeared announcing the fact that a well known physician residing on Seventh street, near Race, had attempted to commit suicide by opening an artery vein in his left arm, but that the attempt was frustrated by the discovery of his condition shortly afterwards.

A week or two afterwards we were called upon again to announce the fact that the same gentleman had made a second attempt upon his life. On both of these occasions the name of the unfortunate individual was suppressed, at the urgent request of numerous relatives and friends.

The third, and as it proved, successful attempt, which was made yesterday, does away with all secrecy, and we are pained this morning to announce that Dr. Charles P. Thoraton has failen a victim to the suicidal mania. For several months past the Doctor had been laboring under a fit of melancholy, brought about, it is said, by an unpleasant termination of a strong attachment he had formed for a certain young woman. This melancholy settled into a desire for strong drink, and for the past few months the deceased had been drinking to excess. During temporary aberrations of the mind the first two attempts at taking his life were undoubtedly made.

The second attempt came very near culminating in death; but, by the constant watching and attention of relatives, and some of the most prominent physicians of the city, including his partner, Dr. Ludlow, Dr. Thornton rapidly recovered, and was soon able to again attend to his patients; but the appetite for strong drink once more overcame him, and as a matter of caution the doctor was on Monday morning, Induced to make a short visit to his father, who resides at Cleves, about fifteen miles from here, in the western part of this county. During Monday the Doctor appeared perfectly rational, and was quite happy at being with his relations, and all apprehensions of any danger ceased.

He retired at an early hour, but about eleven o'clock got up and stabbed hims late to be of any service, as he only lived a few minutes.

The deceased was between thirty-five and forty years of age, and by strict economy and careful attention to business had acquired quite a nice little property. When the war broke out the Doctor was appointed surgeon of the Pitth Ohio cavalry, in which position he gained the universal esteem of the officers and men by his skill and unceasing attentions to the afflicted. After the war was over he bought out the well known drug stand on the northeast corner of Sixth and Elm, where he only remained a short time, as he preferred the labors of his profession.

THE LATE GEORGE W. BELDING.—A correspondent of the Springfield Republican furnishes that paper with the following facts concerning the early and personal history of Mr. Belding, the London banker, who committed suicide in this city on Sunday:—Mr. Belding was a native of Vermont, brought up in the village of Johnson, where his parents and friends still reside. About eight years since, when about twenty-five years of age, he was sent to London as an agent for a New York hoop manufacturer. His energy, enterprise and tact soon brought him into notice, and ere long he became conductor of an extensive hoop manufactory in the British metropolis. He was successful, accumulated property and was evidently a rising man. During the war of the rebellion his voice was more than once heard abroad on behalf of the institutions of his native land. In 1864 he was married, in Paris, at the residence of the American minister, and by that distinguished functionary, to a daughter of his own State, and who is now so suddenly widowed. In 1866 he visited this country with his family. After extensive excursions here, from East to West, he returned the same year to England, since which time he has been engaged in the banking business. Reverses of fortune, it appears, prostrated his house. Leaving his young family to follow him, he hastened to this country to effect a compromise with some of his creditors. Hardly had he touched foot upon our soil, however, ere he is a rrested, cast into jail like a common felon, and there, distracted, heart-broken, sinking beneath a weight of mortification and wee he could not brook in his lonely cell, this noble, aspiring, generous young man

young man

Burst the shackles God imposed,
And came uncalled before Him.

We do not envy the feelings of the relentless creditors who, by thus thrusting this high spirited but unfortunate young man into a New York; jail, broke his spirit, quenched his lift, desolated for ever the hearts of his little family and plunged in unutterable sorrow the circle of loving hearts anxiously awaiting his arrival among the green mountains of Vermont.

REVOLUTION IN HARVARD COLLEGE.—The Boston Attertiser states that a change is to be made in the mode of electing overseers to Harvard College, and says:—What the new plan should be was a good deal discussed in private, and was finally made matter of action at the meeting of the alumni on last commencement day. The plan adopted is to be tried for the first time in the few weeks now following. The general principle is that every person entitled to a authorized commission, under his Proper signature, a list of the candidates whom he prefers; and that the commission shall assort the communication so made so as to report in print before the day of election the names of candidates thus presented who have been nominated by the largest number of electors, their list to contain two names for each existing vacancy.
